

Hanns Koenig (Project Leader)

After my studies at the Universities of Oxford and Johns Hopkins, I started my career at a major strategy consultancy. In 2015, I joined Aurora to help develop our business in Germany.

I greatly enjoy the diversity of backgrounds and characters at Aurora. It's great fun to think through the technical, economic and political aspects of a problem and have experts in each area sitting right next to you. Even better that they are also great people!

One piece of work I am really proud is a valuation of Europe's largest battery portfolio – a first-of-a-kind project, not just for Aurora, but for the industry too. In addition to client engagements, I also really enjoy being a media spokesperson, helping to share Aurora's insights on important topics.
