Donna joined Aurora in 2017 from the Oxford Institute for Energy Studies, where as Research Associate she was focused on investigating policy, regulation, and market design in the power sector.

I was drawn to Aurora by the opportunity to work alongside leading companies and institutions in this field, on challenging problems that they encounter along the path of the global energy transition.

After achieving graduate degrees in engineering, policy, and economics, I was delighted to bring all my skills to the task at hand, using sophisticated quantitative analysis and a deep understanding of energy markets to advise clients and provide high quality insights.
