

Stephanie Zhang (Project Manager)

Aurora was my first job after graduating from the University of Oxford. In less than four years I have progressed to Project Manager, leading teams and projects with involvement in all aspects client engagement.

It's great to be part of a smart and supportive team working on interesting impactful projects with clients ranging from investors to policymakers.

One piece of work I'm particularly proud of is advising government on coal closure policy – it's really cool to think I've played a role helping Britain progress towards a clean energy future!
